Intellectual Property

Our intellectual property lawyers help clients protect and maximize the value of one of their most important assets: their intellectual property. In today's global, digitally connected marketplace, protecting intellectual property and responding strategically to infringement are essential to preserving competitive advantage and brand integrity.

We counsel clients on trademark selection, clearance, and use and manage trademark portfolios from the initial concept through application, registration, and ongoing protection. We also prepare and file copyright applications with the U. S. Copyright Office, handle internet domain name disputes in all ICANN accredited forums, and represent clients in copyright and trademark infringement matters. From emerging businesses to multinational corporations, we develop practical, proactive strategies tailored to each client's intellectual property and business objectives.

Our experience also includes patent infringement and trade secret litigation. Whether representing clients in the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, in state and federal courts, or through our international network of trademark agents, we provide comprehensive intellectual property protection and enforcement services worldwide.
