Litigation

Mansour Gavin's litigation group is dedicated to delivering exceptional legal representation, tailored to each client's objectives. We work closely with our clients to establish clear goals early and adjust our approach as matters evolve.

Our litigation group is the foundation of our firm, and our team of attorneys represent closely held businesses, corporations, and public entities in complex litigation, including shareholder, member, and partnership disputes; contract and labor and employment claims; unfair competition matters; class actions; product and professional liability defense; tort claims; and municipal and public sector litigation. We serve a diverse client base across a wide range of industries, including insurance, real estate development, healthcare, transportation, construction, retail, and government.

With extensive courtroom experience, our litigators have a proven track record of securing favorable outcomes. We carefully consider the costs, risks, and potential outcomes of litigation and advise clients on the best path forward, including alternative dispute resolution when appropriate. Our collaborative, cross-disciplinary approach allows us to draw on the firm's broader capabilities to provide comprehensive legal solutions.
